

CHRISTINE WILLCOCKS

THE INTERTIDAL ZONE

17 May - 4 June 2011

Flinders Lane Gallery is to once again act as a temporal space for Christine Willcocks' imagined museum. Following on from her exhibition Musée Imaginaire in 2010, The Intertidal Zone continues to respond to, as well as, disrupt the function of Museums. Creating personal narratives drawn from the natural world, Willcocks explores ideas of authenticity and investigates the psychology of display through the collection and presentation of objects according to her own system of classification.

'The Intertidal Zone is the area between tidemarks, that which is exposed to the air at low tide and underwater at high tide. Having walked this zone for many years, I have in turn collected, documented and accumulated interesting, not to mention wondrous objects such as sea sponges, plastics, shells, dead birds, rocks etc. ...Using various media such as drawing, printmaking, photography and 3D, this exhibition will explore the rituals of collecting and how this act plays a key role in the preservation of our memories.'

Christine Willcocks

Installation views

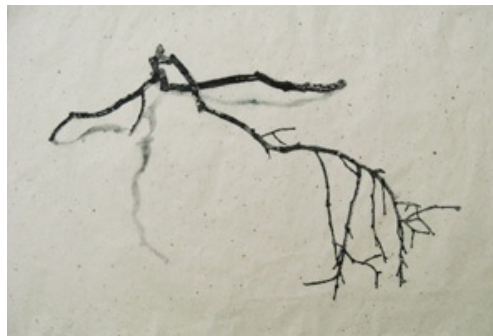

Three trees have fallen 2011
 2 plate etching on handmade paper,
 edition of 5 (4 of 5 editions remaining)
 52cm x 54cm

Sighting the object 2011
 2 plate etching on handmade paper,
 edition of 5 (2 of 5 editions remaining)
 52cm x 54cm

Remnants 2011
 2 plate etching on handmade paper, edition of 5
 (4 of 5 editions remaining)
 48cm x 54cm

Tide less 2011
 2 plate etching on handmade paper, edition of 5
 (4 of 5 editions remaining)
 60cm x 80cm

Four parts of a retaining wall,
part 1 2011
carborundum print, edition of 5
39cm x 55cm

Four parts of a retaining wall,
part 2 2011
carborundum print, edition of 5
39cm x 55cm

Four parts of a retaining wall,
part 3 2011
carborundum print, edition of 5
39cm x 55cm

Four parts of a retaining wall,
part 4 2011
carborundum print, edition of 5
39cm x 55cm

Neap Tide, Black Coral Graphite on reclaimed page
20cm x 13.5cm

Neap Tide, Scallop Shell
Graphite on reclaimed page
20cm x 13.5cm

Neap Tide, Sea Sponge Graphite on reclaimed page
20cm x 13.5cm

Continental Shelf #1
Steel, felt, stoneware, and found objects

Continental Shelf #2
Steel, felt, stoneware, and found objects

Continental Shelf #3
Steel, felt, stoneware, and found objects

Continental Shelf #4
Steel, felt, stoneware, and found objects

Continental Shelf #5
Steel, felt, stoneware, and found objects

